THE SUMMMIT HANDBOOK

A classical sculpture of a woman's head, likely Medusa, with a snake coiled around it. The sculpture is rendered in a monochromatic, golden-brown color. The woman's head is shown in profile, facing right. Her hair is intricately detailed with the scales and coils of a large snake. The snake's head is visible, with its mouth open, showing its tongue. The background is a solid, light beige color.

From the Principal's Desk...

As the global commercial landscape undergoes rapid transformation, it is imperative for the next generation of leaders to decode the complex relationships between emerging entrepreneurial ventures, geopolitical trade shifts, and financial market fluctuations.

The Scindia School has long recognized that equipping students for these macroeconomic realities requires far more than conventional classroom instruction; it demands visionary foresight, robust character, and active engagement with real-world complexities. It is with immense institutional pride that I welcome delegates and participating institutions to the 4th Edition of the Quasquicentennial Entrepreneurial Summit (QUEST 4.0). This year's overarching theme, 'Motus Mentium,' the Movement of Minds, perfectly encapsulates the vision of this summit. It celebrates the profound momentum generated when intellectual curiosity intersects with collaborative problem-solving. QUEST provides a dedicated arena where young scholars are empowered to transcend traditional boundaries, explore bold possibilities, and shape the future through innovation, collaboration, and definitive leadership. As you engage in these events, remember that true leadership is forged through integrity and collaboration, not merely competition. I hope the fellowships built here at the Fort inspire you to become the visionary leaders our global society needs. I extend my finest wishes to all participating delegates for an exceptionally rewarding and transformative summit.

Mr. Ajay Singh
Principal, The Scindia School

From the Head Of Department...

The study of commerce extends far beyond the mere analysis of financial statements and economic theory; it is the active pursuit of creating value in a complex and ever-shifting world. It is a distinct privilege to welcome the participating delegates to the 4th Edition of the “Quasquicentennial Entrepreneurial Summit,” Organized in proud collaboration with Masters' Union this flagship event represents the Commerce Department's deep commitment to bridging the gap between rigorous academic fundamentals and the uncompromising realities of the modern global market. The true worth of QUEST lies in its intensely experiential framework. Moving away from traditional, passive learning, we thrust our delegates directly into the mechanics of modern enterprise. This year's overarching theme, "Motus Mentium," meaning "Movement of Minds," represents the dynamic flow of ideas, creativity, and innovation that drives progress in business and beyond. To manifest this, the summit features a meticulously crafted series of events spanning strategic negotiations, high-stakes decision challenges, creative pitching, and collaborative problem-solving. These specific events are designed to test not just knowledge, but character. Let us be absolutely clear: the global market does not reward hesitation; it demands analytical rigor, conviction, and the audacity to execute. I expect every delegate to step into this arena not as a passive participant, but as a formidable contender. Defend your strategies fiercely, negotiate with uncompromising ethics, and challenge perspectives at every turn. We are not here merely to simulate business—we are here to forge the next generation of industry leaders. Arrive with curiosity, but leave with the ironclad resolve to command the future.

Mr. Raj Kamal
Head Of Department, Commerce

From the President...

The future is not inherited, it is imagined, questioned, and created by the students who dare to think differently. It is in celebration of that spirit that I warmly welcome you to the Quasquicentennial Entrepreneurial Summit 4.0. Having had the privilege of serving on the Executive Council and as the Secretary of the Business Bee Society, it is a singular honour to now lead this distinguished summit as its President. QUEST has always been far more than a competition, it is a meeting of inquisitive minds, where ideas are challenged, perspectives are broadened, and young leaders discover the courage to transform vision into reality.

Over the course of these two days, I encourage each of you to immerse yourselves wholeheartedly in every challenge, every dialogue, and every opportunity. Aspire fearlessly, think critically, collaborate generously, and allow every experience to broaden your perspective. It is often through such moments of intellectual discourse that the most enduring ideas are born.

This summit stands as a testament to the dedication of our organising committee, the invaluable guidance of our faculty mentors, the steadfast support of the participating institutions. To each of them, I extend my deepest gratitude.

As we gather under the spirit of Motus Mentium—Movement of Minds—may this summit inspire not only excellence in competition but also excellence in character, vision, and purpose. I hope you depart with lasting friendships, invaluable experiences, and the confidence to become the changemakers of tomorrow.

On behalf of the entire Executive Council, I extend my warmest welcome to QUEST 4.0. May this edition be intellectually enriching, profoundly inspiring, and truly unforgettable.

Others are built.”*
